Clean Up  the World

Clean Up the World Weekend

18-20 September 2009

Clean Up the World is one of the largest community-based environmental campaigns in the world. The World Organization of the Scout Movement (WOSM) has partnered with Clean Up the World as an Ally.

Held in conjunction with the United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), an estimated 35 million volunteers from 120 countries are now taking part annually, including many National Scout Organizations (NSOs).

Participants in Clean Up the World organise and carry out activities and longer-term environmental projects throughout the year however the campaign culminates with a special focus on the Clean Up the World Weekend September 18-20, 2009.

In 2009, Clean Up the World asks NSOs and Scout Groups to join "communities uniting to combat climate change" and undertake activities such as protecting water sources and energy conservation, planting trees, reducing waste, and organising environmental education exercises to help reduce its causes and impacts.

NSOs are encouraged to join Clean Up the World and profile their environmental activities as part of the global campaign by visiting <http://activities.cleantuptheworld.org>

Register today to ensure your activities are counted as part of the global environmental effort on Clean Up the World Weekend (18-20 September).

Local Scout Groups who wish to participate should contact Clean Up the World and their NSO to register their interest and encourage them to join the campaign.

WHAT IS CLEAN UP THE WORLD?

Clean Up the World is a community based environmental campaign that inspires and empowers individuals and communities from every corner of the globe to make their environment a cleaner, healthier place to live.

Now in its 17th year, Clean Up the World, held in conjunction with United Nations Environment Programme (UNEP), mobilises an estimated 35 million volunteers from 120 countries annually making it one of the largest community based environmental campaigns in the world. Scouts have been involved with Clean Up the World every year since its inception.

The campaign brings together businesses, community groups, schools, governments and individuals who carry out a range of activities and programs that positively improve local environments.

Our mission is to inspire individuals and communities around the world to clean up, fix up and conserve their environment.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

Groups, organisations, businesses and communities around the world who wish to address an environmental issue by coming together to conduct an activity or project can join Clean Up the World. Membership is free and renewable annually.

Clean Up the World initiatives can include clean up events, climate change awareness and prevention activities, recycling projects, educational campaigns, resource recovery projects, tree planting, water reuse and conservation, competitions and exhibitions.

Whilst Clean Up the World initiatives can be undertaken at any time of the year, the campaign's flagship event is Clean Up the World Weekend, 18-20 September 2009. Participants are encouraged to organise clean up events around this weekend and celebrate their environmental achievements.

Clean Up the World provides a range of information, support and facilitation services aimed at assisting participants to organise and promote clean up events and other environmental initiatives.

By joining the Clean Up the World campaign, participants can share information and experiences with Clean Up the World's global network and positively change their local environment.

Clean Up the World profiles and promotes the achievements of its participating organizations through its extensive partner network, global, regional and national media coverage and its website.

The campaign is coordinated and promoted by Clean Up the World Pty Ltd based in Sydney, Australia.
