A new site, A single gateway to the whole Movement

The launch of the new brand of World Scouting is accompanied by a new and improved web platform which includes multilingual functionality. This new site integrates the contents of the old WOSM website, with the six regional sites which have coexisted since Scouting entered the electronic domain.

On the eve of its centenary, the Scout Movement offers a new window into all of its areas ? at global, regional and local levels.

Differing from the previous site, the new scout.org is enriched by sections that are more specifically addressed to the media and the partners of the Movement. It also addresses those that bring the Movement to life: young people and future adult volunteers. The new site enables speedy access at the national level for a visitor who wishes to have a direct link with Scouting in their country.

In the coming weeks, changes and improvements will be made including geolocalisation and more accurate translations. During 2007, the powerful use of selected technology will create a virtual experience of the Movement online. Welcome to the new gateway to World Scouting!
