The Kantipur Open Rover Crew and Ever Green Open Rover Crew in Nepal and Japan's Pax IV Hyper group have been working on a joint environmental project in Kathmandu valley, Nepal for the last six years.

In February 2007 the Rover Scouts from both Nepal and Japan organised and ran several environmental workshops for local children which included a tree planting programme. Through these activities, the Rover Scouts learned not only about nature and the environment, but they also learned about education for children, team management, and community leadership.

With such community and personal fulfilment, the Nepali and Japanese Rover Scouts are committed to continuing with the relationship and project in the coming years, and welcome other countries to join.
