Scouting's Sunrise

1 August 2007

On 1 August 2007, millions of Scouts and former Scouts, from all across the globe, will celebrate the dawn of a new century of Scouting. This will be the special day to celebrate the past, present, and most importantly, the future of Scouting.

'Scouting's Sunrise' will take place exactly one hundred years after Baden-Powell ran his experimental scout camp on Brownsea Island. As the sun rises across the world, Scouts will gather together in millions of locations to renew their Promise, do a Good Turn, present our Gifts for Peace projects and celebrate with our communities.

Where are you going to be on this special day?

Here are some ideas:

- See the information available on www.scout.org
- Contact your National Scout Organization
- Discuss this at your local Scout meetings
- Activate the JOTA and JOTI networks on 1 August 2007
