Getting Adult Training Recognised

Exploring the link between adult training in Scouting and other aspects of life, including having a better job.

The training and experience that adult volunteers gain through Scouting is invaluable to them in other areas of their life. It provides much more than the skills and qualities needed to be an effective leader, and so can benefit them both socially and professionally. This Euro.Scout.Doc explores this idea and looks at the advantages of getting the Scouting training system recognised by external agencies.
